COVID-19 AND CALIFORNIA

Legislative sessions are on hold. Sweeping initiatives are shelved. State budgets are already squeezed by massive spending on COVID-19. On March 19, Gov. Gavin Newsom issued a statewide stay-at-home order in a bid to slow the spread of the novel coronavirus. There is no end date on the order. Some public health experts believe such measures would need to be in effect for many months to be effective. Come hear from Assemblymember Patrick O'Donnell as we discuss the State's efforts and its impacts on the harbor area.
